Feasilbility Analysis

We came up with the idea of BigEye after thinking about the basic necessities that each and every student needs but is unaware of it.
We thought of making the life of students here at NIIT University easy by coming up with idea of BigEye where people here at NU can interact with each other on this social website and discuss their ideas and achievements. They can also get to know more about this university and the ongoing events.

GO FOR IT GUYS. BHOT JALDI JAGA BHAI TU... :xD

Nice idea :) some what similar to us .

make an app which will give notification on any event

Suggestions by seniors and faculty to prepare for Competitions such as GSoC, MSP or ACM ICPC

Be in connect with the ongoing world is very important

u have all the options

Form a club for app develpment

nothing

I would like to have group discussions, personal interviews,and communication practice for us so as to get us prepared for the later years and for professional interactions!

If this is going to be an app, then don't forget to add reminder notification

Majority of this can be achieved by creating a page on Facebook and adding those people interested in this stuff. I being your target customer personally will feel lazy in logging on to some other website just for these stuff.

Projects students working on can add that in student activities, will give u more suggestions face to face😗

Include chat feature too!

supposing it has a web service associated with it, make sure it does not go down on handling too many requests...

you must make these features effective in use.

We also need teachers suggestions and advices which would be much better

Your software needs to be good in order to get university to use it. Because anyway they have Facebook, university mail and their websites for showcasing and discussing.

Great idea! But, if you could just create something that is constantly updated with new data and not stagnant. I'm sure you might have considered this. All the Best!

In my opinion, the idea is great, but it would be really handy if it is a mobile app.

We conducted a survey on BigEye and sent the google to the B.Tech. batch and got decent amount of responses. We asked these people certain questions regarding our website like what they would like to have on this website and how often would they use this website.
We got great support from the survey and got additional points which we further added on the website.
